

JUST GLEANINGS

CONSERVATIVES BACK UNIT

Wholehearted support of the Unity Movement in Alberta was given by the convention of the National Conservative Association, Alberta branch, which met in the Hotel, Calgary, Saturday, February 25, with 260 members present.

A resolution was passed by about a 75 per cent majority declaring that in the interests of the people of Alberta, the convention was of opinion that no Conservative candidates should be nominated for the next provincial election.

MINISTERS TO BE OVER-WORKED

Ministers of the Gospel will be booked for one more work day during 1939 than usual; conversely the working man will have just one day less of work to look forward to in the year and will enjoy one more day of rest than usual.

It is just the one year in every-fourteen which boasts 53 Sundays instead of the usual 52.

PLEADS FOR FOOD RESERVES

Expenditure at the present time of about $500 million would provide the United Kingdom with food reserves, principally wheat, sufficient to last for a year, and is being urged by Sir John Sillit, M.P., noted British home production and protection by the Ministry of Agriculture, who cannot by themselves be sufficient. A substantial reserve could now be accumulated cheaply and would greatly relieve the strain on the navy and assure against national danger, second in importance only to the vulnerability of her great cities to attack. The building up of supplies sufficient for a year would mean an increase of about $25 million including interest on the national capital expenditure and the cost of handling and storing.

ARGENTINIAN POLICIES

The Grain Trade Control Board has received from farmers approximately 110 million bushels of wheat, more than half of the exportable surplus. Buenos Aires corresponds to the Canadian Bureau of Statistics reported on February 23. The Board is following a conservative policy. It is largely composed of experienced men who served on the same board when it functioned in previous seasons and the technical advisor is manager of the Buenos Aires futures market with a lifetime of experience to qualify him. So long as the Board is free to decide upon and carry out its own policy, the correspondent remarks, it is altogether likely to be one of prudent selling within the limits of the capacity of absorption of the importing countries.

It is known that the Board has made some fairly satisfactory sales to the British mills and some 12,500,000 bushels have been dispatched up to February 23, of which 3,674,000 were for Brazil and the remainder for Europe. On the Brazilian sales the loss to the Board was reported at about ten per cent and on the European sales about 20 per cent.

The Board's price for new crop wheat is equivalent to 59 7/8 cents per bushel at current official exchange rates.

The results of the examinations will not be known until the next week, the papers having to go to headquarters in London, England. Averages will then be known and those passing will receive certificates.

Mr. McAndrews was aided in the practical work of examining his son, Douglas, and Mr. Percy Smith of Calgary.

McAndrews remarked that the Carbon class was a very good one and resulted in a farewell banquet at the class how artificial respiration is thoroughly done, and recommended that the students practice it frequently.

Those taking the exams were: E. Emery, R. Fox, Fox, W. Fox, W. Fox, D. Fox, A. Glither, C. Reed, D. Ross, R. Staal, R. Stanfield and A. Poon.

BRITAIN STANDS WITH FRANCE IN EVENT OF WAR

London.—Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, in the house of lords said it would be a "profound error" to believe Prime Minister Chamberlain made mental reservations in his recent declaration that Great Britain would give aid to France in case of war.

"That declaration was clear and unmistakable," he said. The foreign secretary also denied reports current recently that Prime Minister Chamberlain is preparing to serve as mediator of territorial claims Italy is making on France and added Britain could not make any move toward mediation "unless and until both parties desire it."

The foreign secretary also stated that statement of British solidarity with France was made in response to a question from Lord Addison, Labor, who asked the foreign secretary for a clear explanation of Mr. Chamberlain's words.

The prime minister, speaking before the House of Commons Feb. 6, said that immediate British co-operation would follow the event both countries were involved in war.

Lord Halifax said "misrepresentation" of certain words in his statement to the British government to state in "progressively more emphatic and unambiguous terms what has long been accepted as the policy of both countries."

"It is not only our geographical position that draws us into France," he continued, "but also an identity of interests and completeness and understanding."

He warned, however, against contriving Anglo-French solidarity as a threat of any sort against Germany, declaring that the dispute over Italy's colonial claims on France does not "primarily" concern Britain and France.

Lord Halifax expressed doubt that there was any difference between the armaments of the two countries, and therefore neither country needed to reaffirm verbally their solidarity.

It is the case that the position of this country is not infrequently misrepresented abroad. On one hand I have seen it suggested that our armaments are not intended for security, but they cover one minor plan for preventive war.

I should have thought that everybody, everywhere, must now realize that there is no party and no statesman that draws us into France. It is the case that the position of this country is not infrequently misrepresented abroad. On one hand I have seen it suggested that our armaments are not intended for security, but they cover one minor plan for preventive war.

New Regulations To Curb Sale And Reduce Deaths From Drinking

It must be designated as "methyl hydrate" and must bear a red poison label, a skull and crossbones. The approval was qualified by assertions United States should discontinue sale of its military secrets, make all sales on a cash basis and conduct negotiations with the prospective purchasers "in the open."

New Tank Demonstrated

Shown To British Members Of Parliament

London.—The war office showed a group of members of parliament a secret tank of new design, said to be "consistently in advance of those in foreign countries."

The new tank has a longer body than previous tanks and is mounted in a revolving turret. It is main task, experts said, is to deal with hostile machine guns.

A WORLD WHEAT AGREEMENT HAS BEEN PREPARED

London.—The draft of the second wheat agreement, prepared by a meeting of experts and diplomats, officers here in the past fortnight is on its way to 22 governments, including Canada.

It contains clauses binding the signatories not to sell wheat below certain price and fixing export quotas. But neither the price nor the quota is stated. The blank spaces are left for filling in later, if the governments accept the principle.

The agreement is considered superior and more workable than the 1923 agreement, on account of the inclusion of the price stipulation. It is thought this clause will remove the incentive to break the quota limit as Argentina did in 1934.

On Canada's insistence, other proposed clauses were cut out of the draft. For example, it was suggested that a world fund for wheat advertising propaganda be created.

Canada was not willing to join this scheme, preferring to keep the advantages of separate advertisement of the special qualities of Canadian wheat.

Most anxious for the agreement were the Americans. Argentina delegates took a skeptical and reluctant attitude, apparently on direct instructions from their government.

The Canadians also expressed doubt of the feasibility of the control scheme. No government is committed by writing to the draft.

The next meeting will be in London on April 13 if the governments think the draft is worth discussing further. No official statement of Canada's attitude was received here from Ottawa, but it is thought the possible price fixing agreement may fit in with the new wheat policy announced by Hon. T. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, Ottawa.

Quarrel Has Been Settled

Iran And France Will Resume Diplomatic Relations Soon

Paris.—The quarrel between France and Iran over the misapprehension of the words shah and shah has been settled. Foreign ministry officials said diplomatic relations which were broken Dec. 29 by Iran would be resumed soon.

The shah had called his minister home in protest against the use of the French press of the word "shah," which means cat but is pronounced "sheh" in Persian. He had objected particularly to photographs of a Paris cat show with references to "his majesty the cat."

Ran Aground In Gale

Two British Submarines Had Been Engaged In Manoeuvres

Portsmouth, England.—Two submarines, the Sunfish and Sterlet, ran aground in Sandown bay, Isle of Wight, during a gale.

One of the submarines was refloated on the rising tide and left for its base under its own power. Two warships stood by to assist in refloating the second craft.

The Sterlet and Sunfish, which were engaged in manoeuvres, were commissioned in 1937 and are reported to be able to dive to deep water in 30 seconds.

German-American Bond Collected Funds At Recent Rally

New York.—James Wheeler-Hill, the German-American bond New York chairman, said $8,476 was collected at the bond's Madison Square Garden rally and would be used "for the extension of our newspaper chain." The bond now publishes papers in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and Los Angeles. Weeklies in English will be started in Minneapolis, Boston and Seattle.

Fixed Wheat Price

Premier Bracken Wants Minimum Price Of 80 Cents Retained

Winnipeg.—Any reduction of the fixed minimum wheat price of 80 cents a bushel for No. 1 Northern, basis Fort William, would be detrimental to the national interest, Premier Bracken said in the Manitoba legislature.

The premier, moving adoption of the reply to the Thorne speech, criticized the federal government's proposed discontinuance of the present minimum price system and establishment of an average bonus.

"I believe that the feeling is widespread that the two problems, that of assisting the industry by way of present conditions at price far below the cost of production."

If reports the new policy would guarantee a price of 50 to 60 cents a bushel were true the western farmer would be unable to meet even his own expenses.

"Since those who wish to produce wheat cannot in justice be denied protection against foreclosure, the person will be the chief sufferer will be the creditor," Mr. Bracken said. His government would take steps to ensure no efficient farmer was driven off the farm by a Fort William price of 60 cents for wheat of comparable prices for other grains.

Receive Royal Visitors

English Workers Give Warm Welcome To King And Queen

Newcastle-On-Tyne, England.—The King and Queen, on the second day of their tour of the northeastern industrial regions, spent three hours in the workers' districts around Gateshead.

The sovereigns, accompanied by Labor Minister Ernest Brown, received an enthusiastic welcome from the working people at every point they stopped.

TO PROJECT A POLICY OF PEACE THROUGH TRADE

Blackburn, Eng.—Prime Minister Chamberlain said a policy of peace through trade but warned that "come the three corners of the world in arms and we shall shock them."

He said his "three corners of the world" quotation from Shakespeare's King John and speaking confidently of his hopes for the future the prime minister told a Conservative meeting in this Lancashire cotton centre.

It is a most significant fact that the easing of international tension which made itself felt after the German chancellor's speech at the end of last month produced an instantaneous improvement in trade reports from all parts of the country.

Mr. Chamberlain said he agreed with Chancellor Hitler that Anglo-German co-operation "would be fortunate for the whole world," and added: "It may well be that this approach by the way of trade may turn out to be the best and quickest way of bringing about a better understanding between our two countries."

Without mentioning the fact that a British trade mission is going shortly also to Russia, Poland and the Scandinavian countries, the prime minister said Oliver Stanley, president of the board of trade, would head a mission to Berlin "to carry further the practice of personal contacts which has already paid such valuable results."

Mr. Chamberlain said Hitler's recent conciliatory speech, coupled with the prospect of a speedy termination of the Spanish war, encouraged me to hope for making for an upward turn in the trend of our trade.

It may be allowed this year to have an opportunity of developing their trade, unhampered by political anxieties.

The prime minister cautioned his listeners that "confidence is not born in a day and when once it has been disturbed it takes time to restore it."

In ending, he said: "My own earnest desire in life is to see the establishment of peace and of confidence between the French and the British. I believe that as soon as a substantial measure of that confidence can be achieved, there will be possible to us the great task of disarmament by general agreement."

PLAN FOR CONTROL OF THE PROBLEM OF UNEMPLOYED

Ottawa.—A detailed plan for control of the problem of destitute unemployed employed without established residence is advanced by the Canadian Welfare Council in the report of a national committee on non-residence and migrancy.

The plan includes proposals for reforming residence legislation, for interprovincial agreements, Dominion acceptance of responsibility for a "small residual group" of migrant men for whom there will be no established residence in any province, farm hotels for the unemployed older men, central registry bureaus for control of "drifters" and routing of men to rehabilitative employment.

In connection with the last proposal, the council emphasizes "Citizens relief and reestablishment is one problem, concerning primarily the employment and welfare authorities and 50 to 60 per cent of the cases is quite a different one, resting on the military authorities. The two should be considered separately."

The council recommends that these work centres should be under civil control, with a second year of training for which young men 18 to 30 might enlist voluntarily for a limited period. Care should be taken against a second year of training and being content with normal community life, it adds. To that end, it suggests maximum continuous participation for six months, with reimbursement only after absence of 10 days or more.

Unemployed older men should be withdrawn from the usual channels of assistance for homes men and encouraged to settle down, through farm hotels near the larger cities and "farm colonies," such as that tried out in Manitoba, the council says. Farm hotels must be made practically self-sustaining for ordinary maintenance costs of otherwise unemployed and wholly dependent men, it says.

The registry bureaus advocated for all larger centres would merely provide a registry for temporary lodging and meals but would initiate a continuing plan aimed at permanent solution in every possible case.

Glasgow Trains Collide

Many Passengers Bound For Football Game

Glasgow.—A head-on collision of two trains was reported at 11 and 31 injured among an incoming train at Stobcross St. station crash. The collision occurred between two passenger trains bound for a football game.

A coach of one train was partly telescoped and the train was struck across the line. The accident occurred near the entrance to a tunnel, making rescue operations difficult.

Need Men And Material

Decried By Goring Indicates Shortage In Reich

Berlin.—A shortage both in man power and raw material was indicated in the Reich in a decree issued by Field Marshal Wilhelm Goring. The decree ordered two 10-hour shifts daily in the building industry instead of three eight-hour shifts and also ordered drastic economy in the use of wood in the building industry.

Senate Vacancy

Ottawa.—Death of Senator James Stephen In Manitoba Creates Vacancy In Senate

The death of Senator James Stephen in Manitoba creates the ninth vacancy in the Senate and reduced the Liberal representation to 33. There are 54 Conservatives in the Senate Upper House. The vacancies are made up of five in Quebec, two in Ontario and one each in Manitoba and Alberta.

Brought Large Income

Toronto.—Gold bars valued at $100,000 and $200,000 were sold to refineries by two Toronto gold dealers in a little more than three years, it was revealed as R. B. Whitehead, a Toronto securities commissioner, opened a public inquiry into the income tax returns of four dealers.

Two Miners Killed

Copper Cliff, Ont.—Two men were killed in the Grand mine here and a boy injured when a "powdered ore" collapsed on them in an ore chute as they began repair work. The others were partly buried by the fall but managed to dig themselves free.

Mass Production

Is Machine Development Responsible For So Much Unemployment?

The subject of technological unemployment, or joblessness created by the machine, is always good for an argument. The argument is particularly heated when it centres about great mass production industries. The automobile industry, for example, is always a fertile field for the debaters. Is highly mechanized production, which manifests itself in such a present-day phenomenon as the assembly line, responsible for much of our unemployment?

The price of research which reveals that a Ford car could not be produced for less than $18,000 if hand-made may help to throw some light on this question. The retail price of a car, would be still higher, but $18,000 is a convenient figure. It goes without saying that automobiles which sold at that price would find an extremely limited market. While many more non-humans would be required to turn out a single car, the number of cars produced annually would fall off to a mere dribble.

It would be idle to argue that mass production and the machine have not advanced the standard of work temporarily, but insofar as they have reduced prices to the ultimate consumer, and created a new market, they have probably created far more employment than they have ever destroyed. That is, it is estimated that the automobile has been directly responsible for the payment of $4,000,000,000 in wages from 1900 through 1937. This sum includes the wages paid out not only to workers in automobile plants, but also in the steel, rubber and petroleum industries, in the improvement of roads made necessary by the automobile, and in the building of highways, bridges, parking lots, etc.

There is such a thing as technological unemployment, beyond any doubt, but, revenue the picture, and one will find the machine lowering prices, widening markets, and offering new work opportunities, and the satisfaction of new consumer wants. A hand-made product that almost no one can afford to buy is the source of little employment. But when the machine brings that product within the purchasing power of the masses, we may have a great industry, and great industries, even in a machine age, require many workers to operate them. The automobile, then, is only a conspicuous case in point. —Minneapolis Tribune.

Remembers Early Events

Woman Recalls First Steamboat And Train Arriving At Winnipeg

Mrs. Mary Wright, 78, of the city, has many "first" memories of old Port Gary—now Winnipeg—the arrival of the first steamboat, the first train and the opening of the first public school.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ramsey, who had come from Scotland in 1848, travelling the northern route through Hudson Bay, Mrs. Wright was born within the walls of the ancient fort.

"Believe me, women in those days did not have time to wonder what they were going to do when they were not playing bridge, she declared.

Even in those days grasshoppers were a plague on the prairies. As to-day, they destroyed crops and the settlers hope for a winter supply of flour.

Millions of the hoppers died in the fields and "they were carried off in wheelbarrows to be buried deep in the barren earth."

Mrs. Ramsey married Archibald Wright in 1860. Three years after their marriage, Wright was made prisoner by Louis Riel's forces. Port Gary was captured by rebels during the first rebellion, the "start of the trouble" that led to the North West Rebellion of 1885.

Autobuses Park one of the show places of Winnipeg to-day, was the Wright farm, 2,000 acres extending four miles back from the Assiniboine river.

In the old home, altered to meet changing times, Mrs. Wright lives today, in the edge of the parkland, where she can survey the historic scene of pioneer memories.

The Four Winds

Was Name Given To Pivacilly Bedstead By Queen Elizabeth?

The last time I called at 145, Piccadilly, a slim robed footman in hunting-pink tail coat and white tie opened the dark-paneled doors and ushered me into a brilliantly lighted hall, where a paper for the London Daily Mail. I noticed a large open fire-draw, and on a simple table next to the door a bottle of ink in black leather with gold lettering and a handsomely chased inkstand.

In the small, paved carriage-yard outside, limousines came and went, bearing court officials and officers of state.

That was little more than two years ago, when the semi-privacy of the Duke and Duchess of York, whose home it was, was about to be terminated by the Duke's accession to the throne. There was a crowd outside.

I should have thought that many people would have liked to live there, if only out of curiosity, but 145 Piccadilly has remained empty for two years.

If I had £2500 (£12,500) a year to spend on rent I could live there myself. That is all the agents are asking—exclusive of rent, which are, of course, substantial.

No. 145 is a "very desirable residence."

Apart from 20 bedrooms and nine reception rooms, there are:

"Twelve kitchens, spreading far under the gardens."

A chef's sitting-room with a glass cupola sticking up through the roof.

A strong-room with a door that takes two men to swing, and, below that, a room for lighting apparatus, costing £20 ($100) a week.

A little beyond me, a little beyond other prospective tenants, I was told that the company which had practically completed a deal whereby No. 145 was to have been converted into flats has withdrawn its offer at the last moment.

Apart from the stipulation that you may not use the premises for trade or business, there are no great restrictions in the lease. No. 145 is a superb mansion, a chef's kitchen, a chef's kitchen, a chef's kitchen.

This ordinary, 50-year-old site facing Constitution Hill and backing up Park Lane, was called "Four Winds" by the Queen because of its position.

An Omitted Comma

Told The World People Author Liked To Spoil Cats

The New York Daily News had to explain that it omitted a comma, and that Clara Booth, the author, doesn't spoil her, innocent pussy cats.

In an article on Miss Booth, author of the Broadway hits, "The Women," and "Kiss the Boys Good-Bye," the News had mentioned that her hobbies included: "Surfboarding, riding, shooting cats and needle-point."

A telegram to the News from Alma Eleanor Carter, who described herself as "president, Bronx Chapter, B.P.C.M.P.P." (Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Man's Four Footed Friends) read:

"I am sure you should write strong editorial condemning heartless bossy quote shooting cats unquote successful exclaim Clara Booth which she so brutally confesses to in your paper this morning."

The News explained that there should have been a comma after the word "shooting" in the interview. The News added Miss Booth's own comment: "I love real cats. But not some lazy cats I know."

Rocking Chair Coming Back

Furniture manufacturers have good news for us: the dear, old fashioned rocking-chair is coming back. There is nothing like a rocker for interesting the nerves, cultivating poise, or exuding the bly. None of your new-fangled sliders, gliders or jumpers can compare with a rocking chair for solid comfort. They are making them smaller sized, with low, attractive rockers, but let's hope they leave the old-time squiggle in them.

Honor For Disney

A Glasgow teacher had occasion the other day to explain to a class of 11-year-olds the title "Post-Latitude." Later he asked if they knew the present holder of the office. There was a lengthy silence, and then the full boy of the class suggested "Sir Walter Disney." And who can blame him?

Some Facts About Jewels

Expert Says Very Few Precious Stones Are Without Flaws

Don't go floundering around in a dish of oyster seed looking for pearls. Frank Gardner Hale, jewel expert for the Boston Society of Arts and Crafts, says it isn't worth while.

"Nobody ever found a pearl of any consequence in an oyster stew or in a plate of oysters on half shell," he told a lecture audience in Kansas City.

Hale dropped these other facts about gems:

"The diamond is not the most valuable jewel and never was. The emerald, having replaced the ruby."

"There is scarcely a flawless precious stone. Even diamonds usually are flawed. Just because a diamond will scratch glass just as well."

"The rubies found in South Carolina aren't rubies at all. They are used widely to make good 'cat's paw' paper."

So far as scientists can learn there is no difference between an aquamarine and an emerald except the shade of green.

"Any emerald of more than two carats is either flawed or synthetic. The chief trouble with synthetic diamonds is that they are too perfect."

"There is no such thing as an uncut stone." Those that appear uncut are just cut that way.

Lord Egmont's Title

Right To Use It Confirmed After Seven Years

The claim of the Earl of Egmont, of Calgary, to his title now has been confirmed and he is entitled to sit in the House of Lords.

The earldom, an Irish title, does not qualify Lord Egmont for a seat in the House of Lords, but he also has the honorary of Lord and Hal-lard in the peerage of Great Britain, enabling him to sit with the peers.

The clerk of the crown office of the House of Lords said that Lord Egmont's solicitors had been informed Jan. 31 that his claim to the title has been confirmed.

Though Lord Egmont succeeded to the title in 1952 he has only now proved his descent and right to the title.

Robert Pownall, an old age pensioner who believed he was the rightful heir, contested the right of the present earl's father, an Alberta rancher, to the title. The claim was thrown out by the courts in 1930 and Pownall died in 1937.

What Other Countries Charge

Canada's Radio License Fee Is Reasonable In Comparison

Canada's radio fee is reasonable compared with most countries with publicly-owned systems of broadcasting. Great Britain charges the same amount as Canada, but here are some of the others: Germany $9, Denmark $3.40, Italy $6.50, New Zealand $7.50, South Africa $3 to $6, Norway $5, Australia $3.75 to $8.75.

Canada's broadcasting programs are considered much better than most of those countries.

Newfoundland Dog Takes Part In Rescue Of Drowning People

The heroic act of a seven-year-old Newfoundland dog, who aided his 16-year-old Chinese master, Simon Yum, in the dramatic rescue of two people from drowning last August, was rewarded when presented with a medal by officials of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The rescue was made when Ernest Jackson of Montreal was caught in the swift current of Riviere des Prairies, outside of Montreal. Mrs. H. R. Zundel went to his aid but had difficulty with the current.

Young Yum dived in and brought Jackson to the surface while the dog towed Mrs. Zundel to safety.

The Food Of Foods

Milk Is Believed To Be The Most Essential Food Known

In view of the millions of gallons of milk produced in Canada every year, it seems incongruous that the consumption of milk in the Dominion is only about two-thirds of a pint, writes Laura Pepper, in the bulletin "Milk—The Food of Foods," issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. This is partially explained by the fact that many people may not sufficiently appreciate the important role this really indispensable food plays in nourishing the body. The present per capita consumption is much lower than that recommended by reliable authorities who have made a study of nutrition.

The Technical Committee of the Health Committee of the League of Nations recommends the daily use of 700 grams of milk (about 1 1/2 pints) for children 1 to 2 years of age, and 1,000 grams (about 14 1/2 pints) for children up to 14 years of age. The Commission also emphasizes the fact that milk should form a conspicuous element of the diet at all ages.

Milk is the best foundation on which to build meals for both children and adults. It supplies the elements of a pint and a half to one quart for each child, particularly during years of most rapid growth, will supply the required calcium, as well as appreciable amounts of protein, vitamins, and other growth-promoting factors.

A pint of milk daily is beneficial to adults, not merely for its caloric contribution but for its protein and calcium content, which are valuable substitutes for it. The bulletin, which may be obtained free on application to the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, deals in a concise manner with the most important facts such as the value of milk in the diet, milk in various forms, care of milk from producer to consumer, and the uses of milk, together with many recipes for soups and chowders, lamb chops, and other dishes.

Drew Attention To Shortage

German Housewives Forced Lines

To Germans coffee has long been almost as indispensable as to Americans. The dark brown beverage, it is said, is a part of their daily being and good fellowship, has been for them a breakfast staple and a social stimulant.

Many to hours of conversation over the cup. Vietnamese coffee with whipped cream attained international reputation.

In recent weeks, however, fewer Germans were finding enjoyment in the beverage. It was in short supply, and to the beans, and to the eke out a dwindling supply roasted barley was being used as a substitute. Though adulterated coffee is not new in Europe—a mixture of chicory and coffee is actually preferred in many countries to a pure blend—coffee proved particularly unpalatable. Even that substitute was not easy to obtain.

Outside coffee shops housewives formed long lines to obtain at least a small supply. Police broke up the queues and the press denounced as "coffee shyne" those who by forming coffee lines focused attention on the shortage. Relief was promised shortly as a result of new financial aid from the United States.

British Memorable some Germans were finding an outlet for their feeling by telling such a joke as the following:

"There's plenty of coffee. Any store will give you a pound if you buy two pounds of butter and a dozen eggs. All you have to do is find a store with that much butter and eggs." —New York Times.

BEAVE YOURSTER TRAVELS FROM ORIENT TO LIVE IN CANADA

Six-year-old Edward Halasi, China-born son of a former British naval officer, patterned down the gang-plank of the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Japan" at Vancouver recently, after voyaging across the Pacific Ocean by himself, to start life anew with a nation of people he had never seen before. Bare-kneed, blue-eyed, and with his hair cut, Edward solemnly introduced himself to his new guardians, the Halasis, of Chilliwack, B.C., who is his uncle. Displaying strong youthful determination, the young lad took quite a fancy to J. H. Shaw, right, tourist case steward on the liner, and definitely refused to have anything to do with anyone aboard, including the captain, stewards, and officers or passengers.

SAFE AS CANADA

IN A WORLD of uncertainties, Life
Insurance stands out as a solid rock of security—giving priceless protection to millions of Canadian men, women and children.

Life Insurance reflects the safety and stability of Canada itself. Assets of more than Two Billions of Dollars—owned by the policyholders—are invested in Dominion and Provincial and Municipal securities; in industries and utilities; in our homes, farms and schools.

Throughout troublous times of wars, epidemics and depressions, Life Insurance has kept faith with the people. It has provided many families with food, clothing, shelter and other necessities of life, and assured men and women financial security in their old age.

subsequent year.

Payment should be made to the City Clerk and Treasurer in the City of Drumheller, and to the respective Secretaries of Municipal Districts, Villages and Hamlets in the rural areas. In the case of those resident in Improvement Districts, payment should be made to the person duly appointed to receive payment of taxes.

This levy is made under authority of the Honourable Minister of Health. To obtain the Hospital supporters' fee of $1.00 per day for themselves and dependents, ratepayers will be required to produce a receipt as proof of payment of the minimum tax.

Commercial Printing

Do not try to economize on necessary expenses. Neatly printed business stationery is just as important to your business as any other of your necessary expenses, and it is poor economy to do without it. Blank writing paper and forms on which your name is written in with ink do not raise the prestige of your business. And if it's economy that you want, see us and find that our new prices are most reasonable.
